ASTORIA COLUMN

Coxcomb Hill, Astoria

The Astoria Column was built in 1926 by the Great Northern Railway, which was at that time building monuments in cities all along its rail system. The column, best known of all, has become a symbol of the city of Astoria.

The monument was patterned after Trojan's Column in Rome. Italian artist Atillio Pusterla created a mural which spirals up the outside of the 125-foot-high tower, depicting the history of the area from the primeval forest discovered by Capt. Robert Gray in 1792. At the base of the monument, a large relief map, cast in bronze, points out landmarks visible on the surrounding countryside.

On a clear day the more energetic may climb the 164 steps of the column's spiral stair for a breathtaking view of the lower Columbia River and the Pacific Ocean, as well as the altered cone of Mount St. Helens, which erupted in May 1980.

CAPT. GEORGE FLAVEL MANSION

8th Street & Duane Avenue, Astoria

With its park-like grounds, the stately Flavel Mansion was one of the first homes on the Oregon Coast to be listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

It was built between 1883 & 1885 by the state's best known Columbia River bar pilot, Capt. George Flavel. Capt. Flavel made a fortune guiding sailing and steam ships across the Columbia River bar and also developed a number of successful land-based commercial ventures. The Captain used this fortune to build the grand and lavishly decorated Victorian home where his family was to live, removed from the rough and tumble of Astoria's waterfront.

The Flavel House was deeded to Clatsop County by the Flavel family in 1932, and in turn the County gave operating authority to the Clatsop County Historical Society, which began operating the house as a museum in 1950.

Tickets at either the Flavel Mansion or Heritage Museum admit visitors to both facilities. Costs: $3.00 for Adults; $2.50 for Senior Citizens; $1.00 for children ages 6-12. Open everyday 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Oct. to April and 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. May to Sept.

HERITAGE MUSEUM

16th Street & Exchange Avenue, Astoria

Astoria's former City Hall, built in 1905 was purchased by the Historical Society. After use as a City Hall, Clatsop County Offices, a library, a U.S.O. Club for WW II off-duty U.S. Servicemen, and the first home of the Columbia River Maritime Museum, the building lay in virtual derelict condition.

Now, largely restored and listed on the National Register of Historic Places, this stately building acts as a growing museum dealing with Clatsop County's rich history and also houses the administrative offices of the Historical Society. There are approximately 3500 sq. feet of exhibits on the first floor. An additional 3300 sq. ft of exhibits and public function space occupies the second floor, overlooking the Columbia River. An additional 1000 sq. ft of multi-use space are being developed.

There were more than 45,000 visitors to the Heritage Museum and Flavel House in 1988.

Tickets at either the Flavel Mansion or Heritage Museum admit visitors to both facilities. Costs: $3.00 for Adults; $2.50 for Senior Citizens; $1.00 for children ages 6-12. Open everyday 11:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Oct. to April and 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. May to Sept.

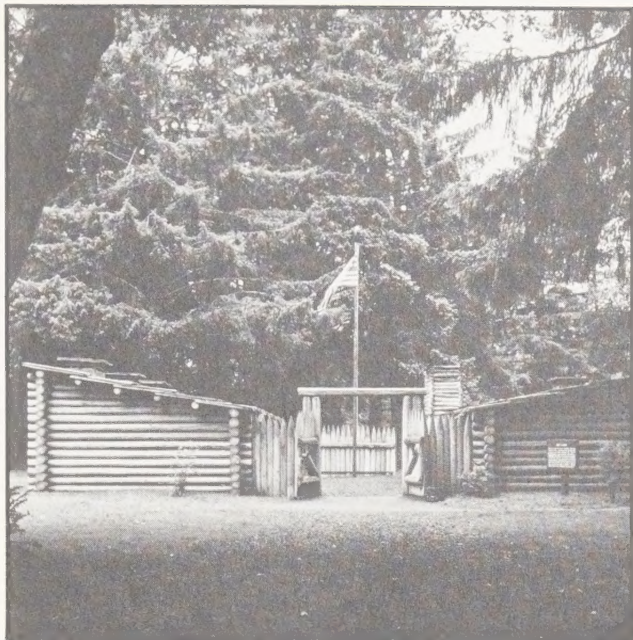

COLUMBIA RIVER MARITIME MUSEUM

17th Street & Marine Drive, Astoria

Astoria is home to the finest maritime museum in the Northwest. Within the museum's 37,000 sq. ft. of exhibit space, visitors can walk through the story of different eras of river history. On display are full-sized vessels, a Bristol Bay fishing boat, a U.S. Coast Guard motor lifeboat, Columbia River gillnet boats, as well as marine engines. Visitors can view superb displays on lighthouses, shipwrecks, navigation, fur trade and exploration, fishing and cannery steam ships, and naval history.

Special experiences include looking at ships on the river through a submarine periscope and walking on the bridge of a WW-II Navy destroyer. Fine ship models can be seen throughout the museum. The outstanding Museum Bookshop has the largest, most complete inventory of maritime publications anywhere. Admission includes a self-guided tour of the fully operational Coast Guard Lightship COLUMBIA, a sea-going lighthouse. Open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. (closed Mondays in winter). Admission: $3.00 adults, $2.00 senior citizens and $1.50 students ages 6-18. For information call 325-2323.

FT. CLATSOP NAT MEMORIAL

Six miles south of Astoria, off HWY 101

When Captains Meriwether Lewis and William Clark led their Corps of Discovery here in 1805, they built a stockade for winter quarters. They moved in on Christmas Day and spent the next three months putting up game, making moccasins and buckskins to replace their worn-out clothing, and preparing for the long homeward journey. After departure on March 23, 1806, the fort deteriorated quickly, but memory of the site was kept alive by local tradition. In 1955, a replica of the fort was built and three years later it became a national memorial.

More than 200,000 visited in 1988 to see the fort's "Living History" program where Nat. Park rangers make candles, smoke meat, make clothing, build canoes, and fire flintlocks in the same way that expedition members did in 1806. A museum details the entire epic journey; a slide show about the trip is shown several times a day; and copies of the explorers' journals are available for purchase. Memorial hours from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. from mid-June to Labor Day, and until 5 p.m. in winter. Living History program only during summer, but large groups can make special arrangements for earlier or later programs. For information call 861-2471.

FT. STEVENS HISTORICAL AREA & MILITARY MUSEUM

Fort Stevens State Park, Hammond

Over 100 years ago, young soldiers dressed in Union Blue stood watch over Fort Stevens at the mouth of the Columbia River. In 1897, as part of a nation-wide program to improve coastal and harbor defenses, an extensive refortification program began. Eight concrete gun batteries were built and rifled 10-inch cannons installed. On June 21, 1942, Fort Stevens received the distinction of being the only military installation in the continental U.S. to be fired on since the War of 1812. Shortly after World War II, Fort Stevens was deactivated as a military fort.

Today visitors see many military artifacts and interpretive displays at the Museum. A short movie of 10" guns being fired in 1941 is also shown.

Exploring the abandoned Gun Batteries and climbing to the nearby Commander's station for a scenic view of the Columbia River and South Jetty are popular activities. During the summer, guided tours of the underground Battery Mishler are available as well as a narrated tour of the Fort's 37 acres in a 2 1/2 ton U.S. Army truck.

The area is open from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. every day in summer, and 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. five days a week in winter.
